

alex white — national park

National Park, is based on the huts and diverse environment of Mount Field National Park, northwest of nipaluna Hobart.

For this body of work, I have chosen to emphasise the deeper context of each hut by exploring the landscape and depicting the endemic vegetation. Over the past five years, I have spent countless days exploring this area and taking photographs in all seasons, strengthening my sense of place. I often complete the same walks multiple times to gain a deeper familiarity with the landscape. My intent is to create a body of work that is not only familiar to me, but to those who have also experienced this landscape.

Alex White

August 2026